
DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by Astartois - 2008/07/21 11:44

I BELIEVE IN LOVE AT SECOND SIGHT!

Something has to start from somewhere. Liking may develop to a real one, after the initial "crush". This in my opinion is what people term as love. At first sight, something moves you to want to acquaint with the individual. Then when you make acquaintance, you discover more of the things you like and hate. From there you can work things out and iron your differences or stop to further the association. It all depends on the players this time. Any relationship can cheaply fail if it lacks understanding and cohesion. But again, someone has got to be careful because first appearances might be risk taking. Real love doesn't come at first sight in my opinion. That first crush transforms into love and grows, the longer you have been with someone.

:P

=====

Re:DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by rambuka - 2008/07/21 13:19

in my view i think the first sight is liking---and from liking then some feelings can develop coming to some love and maybe latter it can be love or otherwise.

=====

Re:DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by JeenaJulia - 2008/07/21 20:09

Oluzungu lunemeseza okutegela kyemwogerako naye nga omulamwa gwo gubadde gunkute omubabilo. Love at first sight kyekivunulwa kitya mululimi oluganda??Naye kukitono kyentegedde ndowoza kwekugwa amatu nga wakalaba bwoti...naye ebintu nga bulijjo tebiba byangu but nga Bennitah bweyatugamba guba musayi nga gusimye,olwo emitima negiwambibwa be it first or last sight.Tunayongeleza okwo...

=====

Re:DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by Meli - 2008/07/22 00:59

I'm tempted to say that I've witnessed lust at first sight. But one thing I know for sure, with love everything is possible, even love at no sight at all.

=====

Re:DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by JeenaJulia - 2008/07/23 07:44

Meli wrote:

I'm tempted to say that I've witnessed lust at first sight. But one thing I know for sure, with love everything is possible, even love at no sight at all.

Tru dis,tru dis...love at no sight at all,oba njiyite lust at no sight at all,that later develops into love nga Rambuka bweyakikonyeko.:huh: :blink:

=====

Re:DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by prettyd - 2008/07/23 12:25

Nze ndowooza it all depends on what one calls love. To some pple love is that feeling of liking some one, so to them love at first sight does exist, but to others love is a feeling that goes beyond liking and its more detailed and deeper. That, cannot just come when u see somebody for the first time, it takes more than that.

And about love with no sight at all, this does exist because in this you get to know the person well without attaching it to face value or call it physical beauty but rather concentrate on the inner person, that's what's most important!

=====

Re:DO YOU BELIEVE IN LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT!

Posted by Astartois - 2008/07/23 14:05

JJ, singa mpandika muluganda togya kutegere kyengyogerako, kyenva neyazika olulimi lwaba colonialists.

I'm tempted to say that I've witnessed lust at first sight. But one thing I know for sure, with love everything is possible, even love at no sight at all.

Come to think of it, love at no sight does exist after all, especially in the virtual community.

=====