Allow me a space in your reputable website to make a personal observation regarding events in our region, which at first sight may seem totally inconsequential to us Ugandans.

The reported swoop on Rwanda by British parliamentarians, headed by Henry Mitchell supposedly to teach a class of Rwandan teachers English language, (Times of London, Wed 06/08/08), captioned "Rwanda given two weeks of Tory Administration" seems strange to me, to say the least. Last year the Conservative Party Leader, David Cameron, a probable successor to Mr Gordon Brown, joined a smaller set of Tory volunteers in Rwanda to highlight project Umubano (Times of London pg 9-06/08/08). How come British MPs have become teachers over night? Equally surprising was the recent report that Mr. Tony Blair, former British Prime Minister, accepted appointment as Advisor to the Rwanda government. Since when has a former British Prime Minister stooped so low as to accept an obscure appointment as "Advisor" to what they love to call a "tin pot little African country"? Why has Rwanda, a region smaller than our Karamoja region, suddenly become so important to the British? Since when have vultures swarmed in one spot where there is no carcass?

It may seem as impertinent a question as when Sir Isaac Newton asked himself "why does an apple fall" from its' tree. This apparently impertinent question led to a very pertinent answer that we know today as the theory of gravitation, etc.

I recall that soon after the fall of Field Marshall Amin in 1979, a French charity went about distributing food in Karamoja, when the area was ravaged by famine. The British media were quick to cry "foul" ..."what are the French doing in a former British colony?" they cried. As if Uganda was their property for life! But if we are to allow that former colonists still have exclusive rights to African countries, who do we see now in broad daylight encroaching on a former Belgian (French speaking) colony, contrary to the Munroe agreement/doctrine? It is now an open secret that the Anglo-Saxons, in their everlasting greed for other countries' resources are re-colonising by stealth, former French, Portuguese, even Spanish Colonies in Africa, eg, Equatorial Guinea. I mean the foiled "dogs of war" style of coup d'état, planned by the son of X-British Prime Minister, Mark Thatcher and his cabal. Don't be fooled that the British establishment knew nothing about it. The testimonies of Mr. Mann and others were reported in most international news media. For a sample of what is available, see for example, Our friend, the African dictator and Hedge funds lift the lid on African deception

Equally, certain events in our Great Lake Region, such as the incessant war in Somalia may seem like it has nothing to do with us in Uganda. This view is wrong and naive indeed. Remember that President Bush came to power with the sponsorship of American oil corporations. Four American oil companies, Chevron, Conoco, Phillips Petroleum and Amoco (now British Petroleum) had been granted petroleum concession in 1989 by the deposed Somali President Siad Barre. Even though this grant is now time barred/superseded by supervening events, the oil men still want us to believe that it is valid until Jesus comes back! The Somali war therefore has nothing to do with Islamic fundamentalism or "the war on terrorism" as American government propaganda wants us to believe. It is about resources. (see Oil in Darfur? Special Ops in Somalia?). Just as the war in North/North-Eastern Uganda is being waged by M7 and his partners in crime, Tullow/Harman Resources/Heritage oil & Gas concessions, because of the oil and gold, possibly uranium that covers Easter Congo/ Bunyoro /Northern Uganda; see Northern Uganda: Hidden War and Massive Suffering. Another White People's War for Oil. and DARFURISM, UGANDA & U.S. WAR IN AFRICA

I fear that because of the vast untapped resources of Uganda , oil included, as long as we remain in the hands of the present ruling cabal, Uganda could be heading in the direction of Somalia , or even worse. Those White Buccaneers thrive best when there is confusion.

It seems that Ugandan born and former Director of Military Intelligence of M7, President Kagame is taking advantage of the presence of a large number of British parliamentarians to shout aloud for the whole world to hear that the genocide in Rwanda was the work of Senior French officials (The Telegraph-06/08/08, pg 14), including the then incumbent French President Francois Mitterrand. Could it be that he was tacitly encouraged to do so by Whitehall as to distract world attention from their surreptitious missions to Rwanda, a former Belgian (French speaking) country?

We Ugandans know very well that even before the public outrage in Rwanda which broke out on 6th April 1994, following the death of Presidents Juvenile Habyarimana of Rwanda and Cyprian Ntaryamira of Burundi respectively, the genocide of Hutus by RPF/NRA from Uganda side was already in full swing, but was still concealed to the whole world, except to the organizers, M7 & co and their Americans/British backers. Unfortunately, this fact was buried in the avalanche of events that followed the post 6th of April, 1994 uprising and genocide. There are books and articles, websites, etc, already available on the untold truth of the Rwanda genocide, ie, the cover-up, the reasons behind the invasion of Rwanda by Uganda and the people involved in the planning and execution of the genocide of Hutus. See Remigius Kintu, "The truth behind the Rwanda Tragedy" presented to ICRT at Arusha, 20/03/2005. Also see "US sponsored Rwanda genocide" and its aftermath by Keith Harmon Snow.

Details of the invasion plan was also faxed to Kenya Times and reported under the heading "New plan to invade Rwanda" dated 15/12/1990, by Philip Ochieng. If anything it is Kagame's hosts (the British) and the Americans who should answer for the 1994 genocide in Rwanda. Could it also be that Mr. Kagame is trying to blackmail French leaders to drop the case of his indictment by a French judge? Instead of accusing French leaders, would Kagame please care to tell us who shot the plane that killed the two presidents? There is no way the case can be tried without answering this crucial question, because of the inescapable legal requirement to establish "causation"; both factual, and legal causation. Be that as it may, the future of the minority Tutsis in Rwanda (or any where else) is better guaranteed by acceptance of democracy and reconciliation with the majority Hutus and not by changing colonial masters, just because they promise them continuance of their minority rule and concealment of human rights abuse.

During the same time I noticed that there is a Sudanese military delegation in Rwanda supposedly there to learn from Rwanda how the regime succeeded in converting their RPF into a regular national army. The Sudanese would do well to talk to victims of the regime, the Hutus, of Rwanda. They would discover a very ugly side of that army, ie the covert and continuous extermination of the Hutu people, a policy they would not like to import into their new Southern Sudan, if ever it will gain its sovereignty, after their expected referendum. It seems to me that GOSS leaders have not bothered to try and understand the geopolitical events of the Great Lake Region. They are apparently still unaware of the ethnic thread which runs through the Kigali , Bujumbura and Kampala regimes. This is even more so when more Sudanese have come to believe that the Kampala regime had a hand in the death of their late leader Dr. John Garang.

Is it any wonder why M7 is rushing to bring about the East African federation, without setting any criteria whatsoever? In Europe conditions were set for admission into the EU, such as economic performance, harmonization of laws and most of all, the existence of democracy. It was naive of Kenya and Tanzanian not to insist on definite convergence criteria such as a common working language(s) English/French and most important of all, democracy as preconditions for membership. We all know that all the three Tutsi controlled member states are hanging on to power by keeping their armies "tribal", hence they are able to rig elections with impunity. This means that major decisions affecting our resources, land and liberty are/will be decided by unelected dictators (I mean rigged elections). If Ugandans are not vigilant, we could find ourselves under Tutsi/Hima minority rule for a very long while indeed! We know now that all the four Tutsi controlled regimes (including Eastern D R C under Nkunda) survive by maintaining genocide as the cornerstone of their rule, if only because they would become instant victims of democracy!

All genuine Ugandans and our legislators alike please take note of what is happening in the G L R and unite to save our country from re-colonisation.

The war in DRC is the continuation of the 1998-2002 conflict. It is being tactfully done in phases. The Americans and Britain are hell bent to snatch DRC from the Francophone and make it an Anglo American colony. As soon as the hell broke loose last week, the British and American Diplomats were already in the vicinity; and ceasefire was declared in order to enter direct talk with Kinsasha.

Joseph Kabila and all Congolese, for your information, DRC is gone unless you fight to the last man. It is high time you abandon the stupidity of just dancing ndobolo when your country is going to the dogs. Unless you drive the Banyarwanda (Banyamulenga) back to where they come from (Rwanda) you will become slaves in your own country after losing everything under the ground. Don't Congolese men have balls between their legs?

To make a long story short, the Anglo Saxon is using its proxies like Museveni and Kagame to annex Eastern DR Congo, because of its massive mineral reserve/deposit essential to its industrial empire. To say annex is using the wrong word; it is to secede from DRC. The UN is part of the syndicate because it is the core beneficiary. The UN has established a permanent base at Entebbe for that purpose.

The UN has become a mega mafia organization. It has linkages to arm manufacturers, motor vehicles industries especially Toyota for its 4x4 Land Cruisers; communication equipments, etc. When you go to the Old Airport you think it is Toyota assembly line for crosscountry vehicles.

Therefore violence and armed conflict especially in Africa is functional. We can't even rule out that Kony and the LRA are being set up near DRC border to overstetch the Congolese army; and deal a defeat in Goma.

Dear readers, if it true that our people are clandestinely being recruited to back up Nkunda then there are more tears and blood to be shed. But Ugandans why is it the poor man's sons to fight the rich man's war; why is the poor man to protect the rich man and his wealth? Ugandan, why is it the innocent to guard the criminals? Why is it the hungry to guard the pot-belly?

Enough is enough! May be we need anarchy so that everyone is for himself like in Somalia where no one is above others for exploitative purpose.

Dear editor thanks for the same good work please may I say that these so called ministers should stop telling Congo of Lusaka agreement the agreement was for the each country to abide with not one, in fact M7 has not abide with it this is why I am still in exile had they abided I would have been home they are the ones who do not follow, Kabila took Bemba and others he even gave them jobs including Nzenga Mabututu who is now a minister were is the minister from UNRF2 from Ugandan government let them tell us!! these thugs are playing with the mid of others but we all know their tactics I tell you honestly there shall be no peace in Uganda until this regime is topped I promise you Ugandans we are working day and night make sure that this plan is fulfilled what ever may be, we are human beings with brain we know what is good for us so they should stop saying that kabila should follow the Lusaka meanwhile they do not follow, may I say their best frind George Bush is going we shall see who will help them as Obama is from a Nilotic tribe we shall see if he can accept to see his subjects to suffer like before

By now it should be clear to our politicians in the GLR why the Tutsi warlords in the region are acting with such defiance and impunity It is because they are fighting a proxy war to realize Anglo-Saxon dream of ceding mineral rich Eastern DRC. The timing is so right because the evil empire realizes that the Pan-Africanism of the 60s and 70s died with the Nkrumahs and Nyereres. In their place we have mostly a bunch of mediocres, turn coat socialists or cut-throat thieves, ex-bank robbers and murderers as is the case of the Tutsi rulers of Uganda, Rwanda and Burundi, who gained power and are maintained in power as a result of foreign machinations. In return they, with the help of their tribal armies are ruling the region as they like, without any genuine elections, or observance of human rights laws.

It is on record that the British made several attempts in the last century, even just before Congo's independence in 1960 to acquire Eastern Congo (Leopoldville) but these attempts failed. The no nonsense independence speech of Patrick Lumumba sent alarm bells ringing both in Belgium and the UK, the new suitor, lurking in the dark.

Unknown at the time, that the UN was just another tool of Anglo-Saxon and Western alliance, African leaders accepted the deployment of UN troops in the Congo to protect the elected government, just like there is one in the DRC today. It is now common knowledge that the Americans, despite the presence of UN troops assassinated Mr. Patrice Lumumba, Mr. Joseph Oketo (president of the senate and the second most powerful man), etc in cold blood.

Since then Western companies have looted the country's resources mercilessly, causing more than six million African lives. It is amazing that the Congolese leaders don't seem to know their recent history! Notice that once again the UN troops are in fact more concerned about protecting the quack Gen. Nkundabatware, and not the legitimate government in Eastern DRC or the ordinary people of the DRC. That is why their attack is directed at the Mai-Mai and not against Nkundabatware, whom they also describe as a rebel. Instead quack Gen. Nkundabatware is respectfully treated and being protected to facilitate the looting of the region by the various kangaroo Western companies. The scheme is backed by powerful politicians in especially Washington and London. Mr. Jonas Savimbi was protected in the same way for about two decades, until things fell apart. This is why right now those involved in the dirty deals in our region are dying to secure the post of US Foreign Secretary, so that business continues as usual, if not, the post will at least give them the opportunity to cover up their tracks.

The Times of London of 18/11/08 devotes two full broad sheet pages (6&7) to the story of the high-jacked cargo ship, entitled "Supertanker with $100m of Saudi oil is biggest prize yet for Somali pirates". What has not been told is that Western companies are now using Somalia's coastline as a dumping ground for nuclear and other toxic wastes. What we have also not been told is that the other, similar high-jacked ship, a few weeks ago, was full of M7's consignment of arms and chemical weapons meant for use in the DRC war now going on. After that Ugandans can be sure that the some of the chemicals, which M7 first tried to acquire unsuccessfully early this year will be turned on us Notice that the Americans were frantically trying to explain away the destination of the cargo(as Southern Sudan), just to ensure that Uganda's name does not appear in it. When will God's patience run out on this evil empire?

As for the Tutsi warlords in the region, who have decided to take on the peoples of the entire region, they would do well to learn how some of the African and Asian peoples who sacrificed so many of their loved ones, for the empire have since been forgotten. A very good example is the Nepalese Gurkhas who were for centuries used by the British during their many "resource" wars but are now discarded.

The way things are going on in the region the Tutsi leaders need to be lucky every day of their lives. They are warned that it might take just the twinkle of an eye for their fortunes to miscarry altogether. Meanwhile the chances are that more of their leaders could soon follow the path of Rose Kabuye, arrested briefly in France but conditionally released, only because the true culprits are sitting pretty in Kigali and Kampala , enjoying the protection of being sitting Heads of States. This is a nonsensical law, after all did not America (USA) seize Nicaragua's Noriega from his presidential palace, off to a U S secret location! Is it not clear now why M7 has to rig elections in order to escape the ICC! Beware fellow countrymen and women, the chemical weapons for 2011 are now in place!.
