
World Challenge 2007 - Please Visit Site and Vote

Posted by mike - 2007/11/04 21:48

Dear Mike and Queenie,

Thanks once again.

The link to vote for the Pads project is

<http://www.theworldchallenge.co.uk/hygiene.php>

There are 12 finalists for 2007 and this Ugandan Pads project is the only one from Africa.

The more votes one gets the more likely the project will be among the first three finalists to be hosted in the Hague next month. The deadline for casting the vote is 16th November 2007.

Kindly visit the website and vote the HALF PRICE HYGIENE project.

Thanks for the kind support.

Ronald Bisaso

Tried to place my vote, but the site returns an error message page. Will attempt to do so again tomorrow - I'm heading off to ma bed now...

Wish the people behind this idea all the best and success.

Thanks - voting done and passed on the link to all on my various mailshots. People - would it be possible to request those of you that can - that you do the same - spread the word so to speak...? If you can forward spam e-jokes etc... how about something like this that's productive yet positive at the same time?

Whilst perusing the site, came across this and I thought this might be of interest to some persons, but if not - pass it on to those that might benefit from it...

Subject: ICC Internship and Visiting Professional Programmes

Dear sir/madam,

My name is Danet Ly and I am currently working with the Staffing Unit of the International Criminal Court in The Hague I would like to let you know about our Internship and Visiting professional Programmes at the International Criminal Court in The Hague.

We would like to spread the word since we are looking for highly motivated and qualified candidates from all over the world especially from Africa to serve as interns/clerks and visiting professionals in one of the Organs of the Court for a period of up to three months for the visiting professional programme and up to six months for the internship programme.

Interns, clerks and visiting professionals can be considered for a monthly stipend of EURO 950 in order to cover the costs of living in The Hague, plus a return flight ticket to the home country.

We would appreciate it if you could help us and kindly post the information on your web site, board or somewhere else within your premises in order to inform your students.

Please note that the deadline of applications for internship and visiting professional within the Registry, Presidency and Chambers starting around 1st April and 30th Octobers 2008 would be 1st December 2007.

The form is available at:

It feels good to see that we get together here and do stuff like this for our community, supporting our people. I too have done dropping in mine, and will follow Biikolwa's example. 'Hope we win this one.

Biikolwa, nice piece of news you've got there. But, doesn't one need to be a lawyer? I'll go check it out and pass it on too.

Meli - "The Court aims to attract Visiting Professionals with a sound academic background and extensive experience in their chosen profession. Examples of well-placed applicants include candidates employed with governmental, non-governmental or inter-governmental organisations, national jurisdictions, and broader civil societies; or individuals who have practised as judges, investigating magistrates, prosecutors or lawyers in a field relevant to the work of one of the participating Organs of the Court; or who have engaged in extensive academic research, writing or teaching in any of the disciplines of interest to the Court."

All the information pertaining to this can be obtained via this link. <http://www.icc-cpi.int/recruitment/vpp1g/visproeligi.html>

Just a thought considering the judiciary in our motherland appears to be somewhat getting compromised...

The truth be said, our judiciary system or rather the judiciary system in our motherland... there is no such thing as a judiciary system in our country. Period.
