As you read local dailies, in case of Uganda,ladies are advertising themselves to get white guys.lits all about money whererby women want white guys expecting cash from them. The same applies to men, i conclude that most of the time, its all about material benefit.

I have heard of guys dating ladies to get visas as spouses!

I like my men black. Hey, I am not so offended by your choice and I have nothing against white men and I like them but only as friends.

Now what do I love about "dem niggers", man (I am only speaking for myself), they are passionate, motivated, generous, accomplished – in all aspects– ha ha ha – guys are you blushing.?

They do not carry emotional baggage. Honestly, I feel secure already just by looking into those masculine brown/black eyes.

Am I lame? – Hell no I know what I want, that's all.

:woohoo:

I love all God's good people and I believe God meant for us all to live together. But I think the white folks have some issues they have to address and deal with to make a healthy symbiosis possible. When such issues are not dealt with, then there is a problem with maintaining the tradition of both sides. The field is not as open as some people think. I've heard twice of these Ugandan women whose deaths were suspicious to the members of their communities, and the perpetrators were believed to be the dead's husband. White. You'll say with the two cases I'm generalising. Okay. One thing I've seen on a wider range, most black African women here in Europe work like horses to support their white husbands. What perplexes me, they won't do it for a black guy. So, are we losers or are we losers?

Meli, God loves his creation, and he wants his creation to live happily together. He also set borders and different cultures, colors and tribes and languages for his beloved creation. He now wants us to live within our cultural boundaries and colors and languages. God can send you across the boarder, but that is for a particular specific purpose. Usually to serve him. We serve God in different capacities, not necessarily only as missionaries. At a future point in time however, people will be one family again.

Long ago all people were one, living together and speaking one language (Gen. 11:1). After the flood, they conspired to build a very high tower, Babel, where they hoped, among other things, that no flood would reach them. That is, in case God might become angry again and send another flood, even if he had promised not to do so.

If you put people of the same mind together, there is no limit to what they can do. People have some creative capability like that of God. He created us in his image. Great things may be accomplished when the undertakers are of the same mind and unanimous, and stir up one another. "Behold, the people are one, and they have all one language. Nothing they plan to do will be impossible for them. (Gen. 11:6)". If they continue as such, wickedness and profaneness will be insufferably rampant, for they will strengthen one another's hands in it. Their united motive was not obedience but disobedience to God (Gen. 11:4).

Today, people have regrouped as they did at the Babel times. I hear that they are now building a city in space.

God is able to blast and bring to nought all the devices and designs of "Babel-builders". God has various means, and effectual ones, to baffle and defeat the projects of proud men that set themselves against him, and particularly to divide them among themselves, either by dividing their spirits (Jdg. 9:23), or by dividing their tongues, as David prays, Ps. 55:9.

Back to the point, God mixed up the language of the people who were building the Babel tower. In other words God caused these builders to forget their former language, and to speak and understand a new one, which yet was common to those of the same tribe or family, but not to others: those of one colony could converse together, but not with those of another. That way God stopped the mischief they were up to. At that time, God created all the languages and tribes we have today. People who attempt to cross these cultural barriers, are meeting a stiff (divine) resistance.

Some whites know that the blacks are generally desparate to come to the white countries. There are many whites who are actually criminals, drug addicts, drunkards, whose society has rejected. And they have the money. So, they get these desparate black women, and literally enslave them. The most victimized country is Thailand (at least here where I am writing from). They make them work for them at almost no salary, force them to group sex, and any kind of humiliating sex acts you can think of and even death.

The question was "Black or White, what?". Put in other words, the question would sound like; "to stay within your tribe, group and language, or to go to the foreign groups what would do you prefer?

We cannot join hands when our tongues are twisted. If we cannot understand one another, we cannot help one another. When we do not understand one another, we cannot take pleasure in one another.

(a) Consider all the inconveniences we sustain by the diversity of languages, and all the pains and trouble we are at to learn the languages we have occasion for. (b) Think of those unhappy controversies which are strifes of words, and arise from our misunderstanding one another's language. (c) What we are in reality doing is an attempt to a rebellion, a type of our ancestors at Babel. It is to strive against a divine sentence, by which the languages of the nations will be divided while the world stands.

Therefore my answer would be; South, West, East or North, home is best.

Am really happy to have found such an interesting topic on our web. Having stayed in many European countries and now settled in the Scandinavia am experienced with the " Black and White" stuff.

Waliwo ebintu nga abadugavu byetutanategera bulungi mu society zaberu, nga ebintu ebyo bikwekedwa nyo, to the extent that no one can know them unless you over stay in countries outside Britain but in the Eu area.

Example: 'Marriage Is for White People' I have witnessed the outrage of girlfriends when the ex failed to show up for his weekend with the kids, and I've seen the disappointment of children who missed having a dad around

.Our white brothers don't tell our sisters the truth on things like: a "baby's daddy" In many black communities you will find such things not in or less in the white communities.

Senga there is racism in these communities one news paper here wrote"Black people loot, white people borrow"

In Sweden, some girls from East Africa have been killed by Swedish men and cases not taken seriously by police because the girls were Illegal!!!!!! On my side I have not seen any white man aging with a black couple happily!! If you make a good survey in for ex Germany you will find many Mulatos(chocolate skin) without a mother or a father?? Where are the parents of those people?? Tujukire nti mu europe namwo murimu abazungu abakopi, who are discriminated from other people, these are the ones marrying our sisters and we marry them. My X girlfriend was almost 150kg!! Honestly nobody from her society would love or marry her! Her family was praising me for having made their daughter" happy"

Do black people and white people like the same things? Stuff White People Like should more properly be called Stuff White Liberals Like, because it includes things like coffee, Asian women and gay friends.

On my side there is nothing i like more than a black woman. In reality our sisters are the best in bed, warm, tight.

Ekirara never TRUST a white person.
